

State Government opens channels for international deposits to help victims of the massive flooding in southern Brazil

The State government, through the Banco do Estado do Rio Grande do Sul, made banking channels available for international deposits in order to assist the flood victims in southern Brazil. At the moment, there are 388 municipalities affected in the State of Rio Grande do Sul (the southern most state of Brazil), with 203 thousand people are displaced or homeless. Heavy rains have affected 1,367.506 people so far. There are 132 people missing and 90 confirmed deaths.

The the scale of the devastation has motivated a solidarity network to send donations to Rio Grande do Sul to help the victims in the next stages of reconstruction.

Cash contributions can be made by individuals and legal entities through Banrisul partner institutions. The management and supervision of the resources are under the responsibility of a Management Committee, composed of representatives from government bodies and social entities and is chaired by the Civil House of the State. This alternative for donations was reactivated, since it has already helped in September 2023 the victims of another climate catastrophe in southern Brazil, which occurred in the Taquari River Valley. The resources will be fully used for humanitarian support for the flooding victims and for the reconstruction of the municipalities' infrastructure.

See the guidelines from the Government of the State of Rio Grande do Sul (Brazil) for international donations to those affected by the massive flooding
